Weekly Round-up (Autumn Term 1 week 5)

The weather may have turned a little chillier this week but that hasn't stopped us getting out and enjoying our amazing outside spaces. We have put on our waterproofs and wellies and headed into the garden or the field everyday. We walked down to the new development by the church to see the diggers at work. In the garden we have been making potions and using diggers to move natural resources around. On the field we went to the conker tree and collected conkers and leaves that had fallen down, this has sparked lots of chat about the changing seasons.

Inside the talk of Autumn has continued, we have been using some of our treasures to make pictures and magic wands. If when you are out and about and collect treasures we would love it if your children could them in to share with their friends. Lego has been ever popular this week with the preschool and school age children alike. Please bring them in before Weds.

Next week some children will be joining the school for their harvest festival on Wednesday morning. We would love to be able to take a small hamper of donations with us which will then be given to the Exmouth Food bank.

Katherine has had a busy week getting our website up and running again, all of our important information can be found there including term dates and contact information. It also includes a shop where you can buy wellie bags and other uniform items
