

Weekly Round-up (Autumn Term week 6)

Wow — can you believe we're already over halfway through October? Where has that 6 weeks of term gone? Holiday Club is just around the corner, and we're getting ready for some spooky-themed fun and adventures!

Christmas Is Coming!

With only 69 days until Christmas, we've started planning our annual Christmas Party. This year, it will take place at Lympstone Village Hall, and we're excited to announce that Pixie Maz and Santa will be making a special guest appearance! We'll be holding a raffle to help raise funds for the preschool and would love your support. If you or someone you know owns a business or could donate a raffle prize, please get in touch — every contribution helps and is much appreciated!

A Visit from the Police

We're sure you've already heard all about it — but on Tuesday, we had two very special visitors: local policemen and their patrol car! They drove up Candy's Field with lights flashing and siren blaring before parking right outside preschool. The children took turns sitting in the car, trying on police hats, and asking questions. We talked about how the police help us and what their job involves. It was such a memorable morning — a big thank you to our visitors! (And yes — Tash and Clare were "arrested" for stealing cake from the kitchen and whisked away in the police car! Head to our Facebook page to see the video!)

Buzzard Room Highlights

This week in Buzzard Room, we've had a wonderful time with all kinds of activities: On Monday, we kicked off the week with some spooky potion-making, mixing gloop, paint, and nature finds from the garden.

A surprise visitor, a cute kitten popped in to say hello! The children gently stroked it before we safely returned it home.

The Colour Monsters came out to play in the home corner, and we made our own colourful monsters using playdough and loose parts.

Children created fantastic crowns, fit for royalty! They proudly wore them during a fun visit to the park for some outdoor adventures.

Using loose parts and a taped witch's hat on the floor, everyone had a go at imaginatively decorating spooky witches' hats.

We also introduced some "real" tools and learned how to use them safely — starting with a hand drill and a small hammer for woodwork!

Rainbow Room Round-Up

Rainbow Room had a fun-filled week full of creativity, outdoor play and imagination. We enjoyed a lovely trip to the Red Park nearby — the swings, climbing ramp, and bouncer with Lily were big hits!

After the police visit, the children coloured some fantastic police-themed pictures.

In the nature garden, there was plenty of splashing in muddy puddles, potion-making, climbing, and boat play.

The children built impressive towers and rockets with Magnatiles — great examples of budding engineering skills!

We've loved the Room on the Broom story station, using wooden characters to act out the book and create our own versions.

The train and car tracks have been a favourite, with children designing and navigating imaginative routes across the room.

And this afternoon, the children have been busy as builders, using foam bricks, high-vis vests, and traffic cones in their construction zone.
